INTRODUCING CHRIS CRUSTY

by BILL CONSELMAN and CHARLIE PLUMB

NERVE HAS PLAYED AN IMPORTANT PART IN THE MAKING OF HISTORY.

AMSON MUST HAVE HAD IT WHEN HE SLEW ALL THOSE GUYS WITH A MULE'S JAWBONE. IMAGINE TAKING A JAWBONE AWAY FROM A JACKASS.

THEN THERE WAS HORMIGUS, THAT FAMED WARRIOR, WHO SWAM THE MIGHTY TIBER IN HIS KNIGHT CLOTHES.

AND DON'T OVERLOOK THE UNSUNG HERO WHO ATE THE FIRST OYSTER. THERE WAS A MAN.

ANOTHER CASE: WHEN HIS ENEMIES STORMED THE GATES, LEONIDAS HELD A PASS AT THERMOPYLAE. A LESS HARDY FELLOW WOULD HAVE FUMLED.

AND GEORGE WASHINGTON, NERVY ENOUGH TO CROSS THE DELAWARE IN MIDWINTER, TOPPED OFF THIS FEAT BY STANDING UP IN THE ROWBOAT.

BUT WE'D LIKE TO PRESENT SOMEONE NERVIER THAN THEM ALL. A GUY WHO SYMBOLIZES THE WORD NERVE. THE ONLY MAN IN HISTORY WHO'S HAD ENOUGH NERVE TO WIPE HIS HANDS ON AN EMBROIDERED GUEST TOWEL. AND HIS NAME--REMEMBER IT...IT'S CHRIS CRUSTY.

YOU'LL HEAR MORE ABOUT HIM LATER.
